THE LINDURA effect

The effect Lindura has on humans is as unique as the flooring itself. We refer to this phenomenon as the Lindura effect. The natural wood surface of Lindura is a visual and haptic experience. Our new colours create a particularly eye-catching product. For an entirely new perspective on real wood flooring.

Using state-of-the-art technology, we have created a wooden floor that is robust, durable and distinctive – beautiful, resilient and unique. Lindura will be available in four formats, equipped with the innovative 5G Dry Click System (HD 400) for even easier installation, as well as a colour update in keeping with the latest trends for new design possibilities.

Lindura[®] – The wood flooring revolution

Sustainable. Robust. Practical. That is Lindura wood flooring. And this is precisely what makes this flooring the wood flooring of the future. Manufacturing its surfaces uses approximately one eighth of the wood that is used for conventional multi-layered parquet flooring. How does it work? With an innovative manufacturing process! So-called wood powder technology makes the resource-efficient, real wood covering layer extremely resistant to dents. Wood powder is a fine mix of materials consisting of wood fibres, mineral substances and other additives. It is firmly pressed together with the real wood surface, forming a stable connection that ensures incredibly practical wood flooring!

Resource-efficient

Thanks to its special product structure, the Lindura wood flooring surfaces only require about an eighth of the amount of wood compared to conventional multi-layer parquet flooring.

Wood from sustainable forestry

For Lindura, we exclusively use PEFC-certified wood.

Energy-saving

Even with floating installations on a hot water underfloor heating system, Lindura boasts very low thermal resistance. The flooring does not insulate the warmth; instead, the warmth is released quickly and with minimal loss into the room.

Robust

The Lindura surface is antibacterial and is suited to both living spaces subject to heavy wear and commercial spaces (e.g. shops and hotel rooms).

Water-resistant

Thanks to their AquaStop edge impregnation, Lindura planks are suitable for humid rooms!
